

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

If the guidelines as to what constitutes "news programming" are so weak as to permit this sort of blatant campaigning for a chosen candidate to take place, we might as well abolish the FCC completely and simply sell broadcast rights to the deepest pockets.